EXPERTISE

Dr. Andrea Jones is a physician leader in Lockton's Advanced Medical Advisory Practice, an interdisciplinary collaborative of medical, pharmacy, and population health thought leaders, where she focuses on solving employers' toughest healthcare challenges.

A results driven, board-certified physician and licensed attorney, Dr. Jones' diverse skill set allows her to anticipate and advise on the future implications of new medical trends and the compliance regulations that follow them. As an Executive Medical Director, Dr. Jones leverages her expertise to provide data-driven strategies that improve care delivery, mitigate healthcare costs, and drive positive outcomes for employer-sponsored health plans.

Dr. Jones' career journey includes clinical management of patients, conducting pre-suit investigations for medical and legal matters, representing healthcare providers and institutions during the litigation process, quality and compliance oversight, and medical case/claims reviews. She has practiced medicine at various medical facilities and served as a medical director at healthcare companies such as Aetna.
